Women's Weather Watch Goes Regional

press release – 8th December, 2017: <https://www.facebook.com/notes/femlinkpacific/womens-weather-watch-goes-regional/10156007454849295/> (<https://www.facebook.com/notes/femlinkpacific/womens-weather-watch-goes-regional/10156007454849295/>)

A regional women's radio campaign is promoting gender inclusive disaster risk reduction and recovery in Fiji, Solomon Islands, Tonga and Vanuatu.

It's all part of femLINKpacific's regional Women's Weather Watch network supported by the Australian Government, ActionAid Australia and the International Women's Development Agency.

“This campaign is bridging the gender gaps in disaster preparedness messages that are traditionally heard this time of the year,” said Sharon Bhagwan Rolls, Executive Producer-Director of femLINKpacific. “It also demonstrates the vital role of radio in communicating to communities. We are also looking forward to producing our first regional HEROWINS comic book in 2018.”

The messages were developed through our regional women-led community media network, including partner organisations the Talitha Project, Vanuatu Young Women for Change, Vois Blong Mere Solomons, Transcend Oceania and members of the Shifting the Power Coalition, in particular the Pacific Disability Forum.

femLINKpacific’s Women’s Weather Watch is an interoperable information and communication platform that amplifies the voices of our network of women leaders, campaigning for the inclusion of women in all aspects of disaster preparation, management and rehabilitation through community media.

The implementation of the Women’s Weather Watch platform at a regional level also amplifies women’s humanitarian priorities through a commitment made to United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325 on women, peace and security.

For the annual 16 Days of Activism Against Gender-Based Violence, femLINK also dedicated more than 500 community radio hours in Suva and Labasa as well as produced Instagram, Twitter and SMS messages during its 2nd Women’s Weather Watch National Consultation 2017.

Asia-Pacific CSO Call to Action – Realising the SDGs Agenda: From Promises to Action

asia-pacific cso call to action

REGIONAL DIALOGUE ON HUMAN RIGHTS, GENDER, CULTURE AND DEVELOPMENT IN ASIA-PACIFIC:
ADVANCING THE IMPLEMENTATION OF ICPD AGENDA
13-14 November 2017, Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia

Realising the SDGs Agenda: From Promises to Action

Who We Are

We, the champions for Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) from the Asia-Pacific region, gathered in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, on 13 & 14 November 2017 to discuss the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in the region. We strongly call upon governments in the region, UN agencies and other stakeholders to uphold their commitments to fully implement the SDGs, underscoring the need for full realisation of Goals 3 and 5 – on health and gender equality. We strongly feel that the principles and objectives of the ICPD (Cairo-International Conference on Population & Development, 1994) are critical to attaining the SDGs.

The ICPD reaffirmed the importance of gender equality, equity and empowerment, sexual and reproductive health and reproductive rights as cornerstones to a sustainable development. ICPD (repeal 2012) and its successor in 2017 reiterates the continued need to fulfil the agenda.

Why This Call

We have identified the following challenges that urgently need to be addressed to fulfil the ICPD agenda and ensure universal access to SRHR for all:

1. Existing legal frameworks in many countries are limiting and do not cover SRHR. In some instances, laws and/or policies are absent and/or existing laws and/or policies are not effectively implemented to ensure SRHR. Administrative measures like third party authorization and conscientious objection create further hurdles. In many countries closed legal systems also discriminate the access to existing SRHR provisions and further marginalize some women and girls. The lack of cohesive policies across national and sub-national levels create barriers to implementing international and regional commitments.

2. Religion and culture is co-opted and misused by those in power to limit control and assert their authority. Ideology, women's rights and bodies and gender equality are at the center of ensuring such control, leading to violations of rights and subjugation of women, ethnic and religious minorities and non-heterosexuality. Religion and culture is also used to perpetuate harmful traditional practices such as child, early and forced marriage and female genital mutilation. Religion and cultural factors stifle conscientious objection and regions, and provide little or personal ethics instruction in the availability and access of SRHR information and services. Moreover, the rise of conservative and right-wing ideologies further enables the derogation of women's human rights, including SRHR.

3. Right to health and SRHR policies and interventions continue to leave critical groups falling through the cracks. Many – including young people, poor and rural women, female

On the 13th and 14th November 2017, we joined champions and advocates of sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) from Asia-Pacific as ARROW convened a meeting to discuss the implementation of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in the region.

ICAN – Nobel Peace Prize Weekend

ICAN is a global network, which has played a central role in achieving the UN Treaty on the Prohibition of Nuclear Weapons, which opened for signature last month in New York. In total, 122 states voted to endorse the treaty (the UK was not among them), which outlaws nuclear weapons in the same way other weapons of mass destruction have been.
